

---

Amelia Walker grew up in Adelaide, where she currently resides. She spent three years living in Melbourne and has also travelled to Malaysia, India and most of Australia's capital cities. She is a registered nurse and a student of creative writing at UniSA.

---

After fighting with my lover

Amelia Walker

Sartre said, 'Hell is other people' . Easy for him—perhaps—I'll never know for sure if he believed in either.

But what if you believe in Heaven and Hell as one and the same?

If you believe that God is the Earth as the Devil is the Earth as you and I and the guy next door are the earth? As the Bog Man and George and Osama and Mick Jagger are the earth?

Then everything is a mirror and in it, nothing, and in nothing, all.

Each reflection is a death, each death a rebirth

—messy affairs, but then who isn't?